WINTER 2009

Auditorium Events:

NEW ROOTS MUSIC SERIES CONTINUES!

Cultural Affairs presents a new series called “Diggin’ Roots” featuring blues, folk, bluegrass and gospel! These concerts explore and celebrate musical genres grown on American soil that have become some of the most pervasive sounds heard throughout the world. The concerts are free and start at 7 pm the first Wednesday of the month.

February 4 This performance features Big Jim Adam and Little John Stilwagen. Big Jim’s best instrument is his rich baritone voice. His skill at storytelling, emotional singing and the honest musicianship of his acoustic guitar with that right hand thumping bass while strumming never fails to captivate. Little John’s playing experience extends from classical to rock and roll and everything in between.

Date: Wednesday, January 7, February 4, March 4, and April 1 7 pm .

Tickets: FREE!

ENLIGHTENMENT JOURNEYS

The City and County of Broomfield Cultural Affairs Division in partnership with the Mamie Doud Eisenhower Public Library invite the public to attend a series of FREE presentations.

Celebration of Love

Naomi Hoshino Horii will speak and sing about love in a talk and performance titled, “Celebration of Love.” She will be accompanied by pianist and soul portrait musician John Saxon. She will also share some magical musical toning, inviting love into our lives and celebrating the love already within us. Horii invites you to celebrate love with her--love for yourself, love of spirit, and celebrate your encompassing the essence of love just by being you. Horii is a writer, healer, intuitive, and teacher.

This series takes place in the Eisenhower Conference Room of the Mamie Doud Eisenhower Public Library.

Date: Saturday, February 14 2pm
Free!

Shaping Your Destiny

Dr. Onslow Wilson will speak about becoming “Self-Aware” by way of several critical questions:

(1) - How did we develop the character which now defines us and determines how we interpret our life-experiences? (2) - Are we the result of the environment in which we were raised, or are we the result of HOW we interpreted the events associated with the environment in which we were raised? (3) If we truly believe that God created heaven and earth, and everything in-between: Is it possible to have an experience, which does not possess some “Potential Spiritual Value”? Dr. Onslow Wilson is President of CIRCES International, Inc. He travels internationally giving courses, workshops and lectures on how best to become more and more aware of one’s unconscious processes, and the divine aspects of ourselves. This series takes place in the Eisenhower Conference Room of the Mamie Doud Eisenhower Public Library.

Date: Saturday, March 14, 2 pm
Free!

WHAT IS HIDDEN IN PLAIN SIGHT...BRING INTO THE LIGHT

In honor of “Black History Month”, the Broomfield Division of Cultural Affairs is proud to present this documentary film at the Broomfield Auditorium. This is a film about the Institute for African American Leadership. What’s it like being a person of Black African descent when your populace counts as less than 1% of a predominately White community? As a child, how do you navigate the difficulties of racism, isolation and the search for positive reflections of your Black self? This presentation is about the impact of these children being embraced and supported by an organization of people that share the rich and tumultuous African American experience. The Institute for African American Leadership has been serving the unique needs of these youth in Boulder and Broomfield Counties for more than 14 years. Come listen to what they have to say about this experience through a film presentation, a live panel and a special exhibit.

Date: Friday, February 20, 7pm .

Tickets: FREE!

A MATTER OF HEART

A Matter of Heart is a one-woman theater piece based on the life experiences of local Boulder woman, Jan Snooks . Living a full life of eating right, exercising daily, working, and spending time with her family, it was quite a shock to Jan when she had a heart attack at the age of forty-eight. The piece tells the story of how she dealt with the discovery of her heart disease, her by-pass surgery and the aftermath. It is more than a theater piece. People will learn about the heart and how to minimize the possibility of heart attack . Most of all, it is the story of living with joy, humor, and hope even during times of uncertainty.

Date: Friday, February 27, 7 pm

Tickets: $10 adults/$7 seniors & students/ $20 for a group of 4 available at the Broomfield Auditorium Box office Fridays 2-5 pm and at the door
