The Trail System was designed and planned as part of the Open Space, Parks, Conservation, and Trails Master Plan, which was adopted by the City Council in 1996. The plan calls for the development of a network of trails that will be part of the City’s parks and recreation system, including bike trails, walking trails, and multi-use paths. The plan also includes provisions for the development of a network of bike trails that can be used by bikers of all ages and abilities, including those who want to use them for recreation or exercise.

The Broomfield Trail is a part of the Broomfield Trail System, which includes several other trails, such as the West Broomfield Trail, the Southeast Community Loop Trail, and the North Broomfield Trail. These trails are connected by a network of multi-use paths and bike lanes, allowing bikers to travel throughout the City on a variety of terrain.

The Broomfield Trail is open to the public and is maintained by the Broomfield Parks and Recreation Department. It is a part of the City’s Open Space and Recreational Trails Program, which provides funding for the development and maintenance of trails throughout the City.
